DAY 21

The center is all. The center is in each and in the Universe itself. Through the center, we are all joined. This is our origination and to this we return in spirit. To try and understand within the limits of physical reality will not work. One must break through appearances in order to understand. This is why the great key to unlocking the mind is unconditional love, the breaking through the appearance of personality and ego and recognizing the Divinity within each, the Christ within. Once we are able to break through this physical reality, our minds are open to perceive others truths.

Remember, there are no limits except as we perceive them to be. Words are not important, or necessary. We think they are because we feel comfortable with words. Words seem to validate our thoughts. However, the mind communicates far beyond words and does not need words. Many times words set up screens and confuse. Your journey is two-fold; to share the messages in words and then release them to be used without words. The messages will be understood initially through words, since words are the physical reality of people now. Once we understand the messages then words are no longer necessary. The mind has been penetrated with the look of unconditional love. Do not be confused. Our message will be made clearer as you progress in spiritual understanding. Today, simply be and love.

DAY 67

Do not be concerned with the direction of your material life in physical form. Ask for guidance in all decisions. Listen and follow your Higher Self, your God-Self.

Once our souls recognize the Truth of our being, once our journey begins, nothing can stop the flow. If the realization is based on and coming from ego, then anything can stop the flow of our journey. If anything does, it tells us we were not ready for this part of our journey. This is OK. When we become ready, the journey flows.

Yes, all is love. When we accept any unto us, in thoughts of love, all is well. It cannot help to be so, for the natural flow of unconditional love is a force of power with which nothing can interfere.

The illusions disappear as we discover the truth behind. There are no illusions. Nothing but truth exists. Our soul sleeps in the world of appearances. Our soul awakens as we realize the truth. Laugh today in your awakened soul. Know the joy of truth. The truth is spreading. Be gentle. Be love. Be God.
